Thanks for the swift reply with the rough delivery dates, much appreciated.

I was recommended rock dust and worm castings from someone at my allotment. The rock dust has been mixed into the soil with some of the worm castings so is a bit early to tell how well things are going to go, but things are shaping up nicely and the science it behind makes perfect sense.

I've used other worm castings before but was less than impressed with their quality (didn't appear to be very alive with microbial activity). I was searching online for another kind but only found very expensive castings before I discovered yours. The quality is a lot better than I was using before and the cost and quantity is less and more respectively.

Just wanted to say thanks for your generous offer of a free gift next time I order from you.

I'm not sure when I'll next be placing an order but I appreciate the gesture and the time taken to reply to my email.
